To search for domain names, select one or more keywords from a drop down list of common words such as "Selling", "Business", "Promotion", "Freight" or "Warehouse" and the software makes a list of domain names that match your keyword(s). You can select a domain name type from a drop down list or just type in a few letters. To make sure you find the best domain name, you can add any common pre-fixes and/or suffixes to the search, including hypens, number, words or any combination. For instance, if you search for "Selling", you could end up with a list of domain names such as "Selling.com", "Selling.net", "Selling.co.uk", "Selling.org", "Selling.us", "Selling.com.au", "Selling.uk.com", "Selling.uk.net", etc. Once you find the best domain name for your business, you can instantly register it for as little as $4.95 per year with the purchase of any of the 17 TLD's (Top Level Domains). You can purchase as many domain names as you like at that price. If you do not purchase, you are billed $4.95 per year at the time of renewal. If you do not renew, the domain name expires. You can also use the software to check the availability of multiple versions of your domain name in various combinations, with and without common pre-fixes and suffixes attached. For instance, to find a domain name that reads "Selling-finance" in both "Finance" and "Selling" versions, you could end up with the domain name "FinanceSelling.com" which would be available at both sites. If you search for a domain name that ends in ".com" with no added suffix, you can find something that reads "com.money" or "com.business" or "com.startup" or "com.consulting" etc. Once you find a domain name that is available in all the combinations you want, you can purchase and instantly register that domain name for as little as $4.95 per year. Domain names cost $6.95 to register for 1 year and $10.95 to register for 2 years. Renewals are as low as $4.95 for annual renewal.

He succeeded only as far as the wobbly old cars and uninsulated trolleys on the "Electric Avenue" that were strewn around his new "North End/Central Square" development. Hall invited his friends and clients to a party for the expected "cleansing" of the neighborhood. The Anti-Urban League, a group of developers, architects and planners, invited their own guests. The flier for the event said "Bring your most creative humorous contribution to the party, the more the merrier." I'd been asked to participate in the party, but I'd had too much to drink and didn't have much of anything to contribute. When Hall came into the party I heard a strange whirring sound. It was the sound of wind-up clocks spinning to the baroque music and organ of an oboe player. There was no one there, but the sound was loud and annoying. The next thing I knew the floor was tilting, the lights were flashing and I was running around chasing the source of the whirring. I ended up in a room that was like a giant toy store. There were ceiling to floor rows of shelves stacked with gigantic plastic toys from Fisher Price. On the floor were hundreds of tiny wooden blocks, some of them decorated with elaborate painted designs. The blocks were piled in circles, and the circle just happened
